A Stomping Good Tour

Saturday August 18

Join us for a tour of the Los Gatos back roads and a visit to the newly opened, former military base on Mount Umunhum.

After contemplating the spectacular view of Silicon Valley we will be visiting the Jason Stevens Winery at the Stomping Ground in Gilroy for some wine tasting and lunch.

Lunch will be cooked on site and will consist of BIG hamburgers, Chicken Apple Sausage and sides. Vegetarian option available.

$10.00 per-person and a $5.00 tour fee per-car. There is a wine tasting fee of $10.00, collected by the winery.

Drivers meeting at 9:15 AM at Peet's Coffee, in Los Gatos: 798-1 Blossom Hill Rd. 95032.
Tour departs at 9:30 AM sharp.

RSVP: tonyvan@mac.com or 408-978-1101

POST Positions

Kevin Bennett, Editor

Our annual swap meet, probably the longest running single event in LPR history, was cancelled this year, not from lack of interest (it drew hundreds of participants every year), but because the city bureaucracy of Hayward has, over the last few years, steadily increased permit fees such that it was no longer economically viable to put the event on. It appears that the City of San Jose has effectively done the same thing to the popular Dancing on the Avenue, an event that draws thousands but is also being ended due to, at least in part, exorbitant fees charged by the city.

One would think that those officials who oversee popular activities taking place in their jurisdiction would take pride in helping to facilitate these events, but instead, they look upon them only as another possible income source to help subsidize their mismanagement of their revenues. Their heaviest burden is the overpromising of fixed benefit retirement plans for themselves and their fellows based on best case projections for growth of retirement funds, which, of course, have not come to fruition. CalPERS, the manager for these funds, has issued an edict to all of the agencies for whom they manage funds that they increase their contributions in order to meet the demands of their scheduled payouts. These agencies, among which the above mentioned cities are counted, chose not to increase the employee's contribution, but instead are scrambling to raise money on the backs of anyone or anything, especially if they can do it in the form of fees, for which there is little or no accountability.

In 2016, the State of California passed a law revoking, statewide, all cities' mandates over "Accessory Dwelling Units", referred to colloquially as granny flats. The idea was to create more, as well as more affordable, housing to relieve the strain on the state's housing stock. Cities lost the right to mandate huge costs like fire sprinklers, parking regulations, zoning changes, etc.

So, has there been a building boom in granny flats? Not really. Recently, someone in Oakland applied to build one in his back yard and the City of Oakland demanded $35,000 in permit fees. Lay that on top of the expense of building the flat and it starts to not make economic sense, except to the city getting the fees. In fact, just like in the examples of the two events which will not take place in the future, many of these projects will never happen as a result of these cities' mulct.

In another example of regulatory and financial misfeasance, UC Berkeley recently fired six police officers who, while on midnight shifts, were sleeping and hanging out in the math library in Evans Hall after radioing in that they were checking buildings elsewhere on campus. They were technically fired for lying. Seems just, no?... except for the fact that these officers were placed on paid suspension on October 31 of last year. They were fired on July 17, meaning they received full pay for 8½ months for doing nothing. Worse, they are now taking their case to arbitration. Worse yet, there are retired officers defending the six, saying cops need downtime, "You can't be expecting officers to be going 100 mph for 10 hours a day." On a midnight shift? Lunacy! Who creates these management systems that allow such bloat, inefficiency and expense?

One of the causes for many of society's ills is anonymity. Local governments, which were created to serve the needs of the people, have morphed into a spider web of anonymous bureaucrats who haven't the inclination, experience, foresight or will to look beyond their own self-interests to do what is right for the people for whom they are purportedly serving.

Trains, trolleys and... beans?

Fathers, Frittatas and Fancy Fun!

by Diana Hallock

A cool June breeze blew Porsche friends to gather at Bill and Emilie Highley's for a fabulous Father's Day Brunch prepared by the Highleys and the Bennetts. Kevin Bennett was the bacon master, creating perfect stacks of the sumptuous strips. Debbie was the sweets queen, making a savory frittata, zucchini bread, baked pecan french toast and brûlée English custard with berries. Not to be outdone, Emilie served up summer berries, jalapeño sausages and breakfast links in her gorgeous backyard.

Now, to most of us, a brunch invitation means mid-morning, but Ken Iles called just after 10 a.m. to confirm a 4:00 p.m. start time. "Noooooo," replied Emilie, "we start in 20 minutes." We all anticipated a long wait so the boys (Vince, Bill, Bob F, Peter and Hal) gathered round the bar to serve up mimosas. The ladies checked out the beautiful china tea cups and the gardens. Wait! Was that the squeal of Porsche breaks? At 10:45, here came Ken and June causing a mystery! Does Junie sleep fully dressed, hair perfect, and ready to party? Who drove their red Boxster Cabriolet at warp speed? Was it the call of the beautiful hostesses or the smell of the bacon that got them there so quickly?

Small tables kept the day elegant. Jacqueline and Peter Ridgway joined Margie and Ken Jensen with Vince Vincent. John Reed put down his camera long enough to dine with Angie, Diana and Hal Hallock, Kevin Bennett and Bob Frosthalm. Ken and June took center stage with Tony and Kris Vanacore plus our host, Bill Highley. Debbie Frosthalm took a tall chair with Bob and Karen Morgan and chefs, Debbie and Emilie.

The sun broke through just as Debbie passed around the individual desserts. Dog lovers, Hal and Diana, couldn't resist letting Bandit lick a bit of custard off their fingers, a sweet end to a delightful day.

Yankee Hill Cooking School Porsche Tour

Saturday June 9, 2018

Loma Prieta members met at IHOP on First Street in Livermore. After signing in the driver's instructions and meeting took place at 8:45. Our tour hosts were Susan George and Tom Geary. Susie made chocolate chip cookies for everyone along with some bottled water. We were divided into two groups with group one leaving at 9:00 and group two, ten minutes after. The weather was very comfortable.

Our route took us east on I-580, over the Altamont Pass and onto I-205 which eventually connected with I-5 northbound. We headed east on CA-120, and then headed north on Jack Tone Road/ Country Highway J5 and eventually connected with CA-4 going east to Farmington. We drove through orchards of fruit and nut trees and fields of corn, vegetables and wheat which were green and lush with developing food. We stopped for a break at the Circle K/Shell station and enjoyed some food, drinks and the rest room.

After about 20 minutes we headed out again traveling east on CA-4 through fields with cows and rolling hills. We went south on Parrots Ferry Road to the town of Columbia. From there we took some turns on several streets eventually arriving at Yankee Hill Cooking School which was about 103 miles from our starting point.

Our host at the cooking school was Chef Ron Erickson who had a lot of help and support from his lovely grand daughter. The theme of our lesson was Italian Tuscan food. Chef Ron had people gather around the cooking table and had people chopping and sauteing with occasional humorous comments. For appetizers we made Bruschetta and Portobello ala Ciabatta with white or red wine. Then in large pots we cooked Polo alla Toscana which made the chicken so tender it fell off the bone and was delicious. Chef Ron showed us how easy it was to make ricotta cheese and his grand daughter led the group on how to make fresh pasta. We also prepared Risotto alla Romano and finely chopped a fresh salad with Italian Salad Dressing. And for the grand finale we got to make Chocolate Lava Cake.

Bernard & Gail Bove with Nanci Bishop & Paul Smith. Paul looks cold???

When the food was done we all went through the buffet line, then sat down to a fabulous meal and every thing was delicious. The chocolate lava cake was incredible. All the recipes were available and Chef Ron's techniques were helpful. It was a wonderful and enlightening experience.

Thank you Susan George, and Tom Geary for a wonderful tour.

The 63rd Porsche Parade was held at Lake of the Ozarks, Missouri the second week of July. Zone 7 had only a couple dozen attendees this year. However we came home with a good number of awards. Jessica (GGR) and J Toney (SVR) again took 1st place in their TSD Rally class and Overall Winners of the Parade TSD Rally for the second year. Tom Provasi (LPR) driving with his brother Ken took 1st in class and 2nd overall behind the Toney duo. Andrew Blyholder (GGR) took Top Time of Day for the men at the Parade Autocross with his fast 914. Terry Zaccone (GGR) also won his class in Marcel. Tom Provasi and myself both took 1st in the Cayman class thanks to Tom's brother letting us borrow his Cayman. Zone 7 also had Michael Hinton (RR) take 1st in the Early 911 Tech Quiz class along with Andrew Blyholder taking 4th in the 914 quiz. In the Art Show, Caroline Doberenz (DR) received 1st in her class and also People's Choice award for her knitted Porsche crest blanket. Parade doesn't happen without a lot of volunteers. Rik Larson (SVR) co-chairs the Parade TSD Rally and Larry Sharp (DR) chaired the Parade Autocross. I hope I didn't forget anyone!

Looking forward is the 64th Porsche Parade 2019 to be held in Boca Raton, Florida at the Waldorf Astoria, July 21-27, 2019. It was also announced that Parade 2020 will be held in the Greater Palm Springs area, June 21-27, 2020. Save the dates.

Over the next two months Zone 7 will need a lot of volunteers to help with Werks Reunion Monterey, PCA Corral at Laguna, Porsche Platz at Laguna and Rennsport Reunion at Laguna. If you are attending one or all of these events, please, please volunteer. For all events at Laguna Seca Raceway you will need to purchase a race ticket. It is amazing whom you meet and the fun you have when you volunteer with other Porsche enthusiasts. You can email me at sandyprovasi@gmail.com and I will forward to the correct person.

❖ Minutes..

Concours-Open / nothing to report.

Goodie Store-Bob Morgan-I won't be at the meeting but I have made contact with the guy who made the LPR badges last time. I'm expecting a quote for 50 or 100, and will forward that with a request once I get it. I hope to have some pictures of the goodie store items and a link to the PCA region store website so it will be easier to order. I'll send them to James next week so we can update the website.

Hospitality-Sue Sickal, Emilie Highley: June Hospitality Report: Card received from Margot Novak (who moved to Oregon) - sending regards to her LPR friends.

Prieta Post Editor-Kevin Bennett: nothing to report, distribution went well this month.

Public Relations-Ken Iles: Submitted short references to the following events to Linda Goodman of Panorama:-1. LPR's participation in Zone 7 Concours at Fremont Porsche. 2. Taste of Tuscany Tour. 3. Fathers' Day Brunch at the Highley's. 4. Autocross No. 4. I also attached two great photos John Reed took at the Tuscany Tour. One was a very picturesque photo of a few of the caravan of CARS touring on the country road. The other was a great pic of the PEOPLE involved in their cooking school efforts.

Safety-John Reed:- The Observer's Reports for the Yankee Hill Tour and Autocross #4 were submitted in a timely manner to PCA National. No incidents to report. The events release forms were received by the LPR Activities Director.

Social Media-Diana Hallock: She is working on shortening Mid-Month blast but will keep essential information by eliminating repeated posts (like details for Auto Cross).

Tech-Peter Ridgway- No report.

Tours-John Reed: The July 14th tour is sold out. Details regarding the Vanacore's tour will be in the August POST on 8/18/18.

Webmaster-Jim Turk - no report.
